Seminar 2011

Vico and the Humanist Tradition

Organizers: Donald Phillip Verene
Location: Emory University, 202 Bowden Hall

Vico and the Humanist Tradition
SUMMER SEMINAR
JUNE 6–17, 2011

Emory University Institute for the History of Philosophy

DIRECTOR
Donald Phillip Verene Department of Philosophy and Institute for Vico Studies, Emory University

GUEST SPEAKER
Brian Copenhaver Department of Philosophy, UCLA

The first sessions of the seminar will concern the sources of Vico’s thought in Renaissance Italian Humanism. These will be followed by section-by-section discussions of Vico’s New Science (1730/1744).
The Institute will provide room, board, and travel expenses for 10 participants.

Applications are invited from college and university faculty and independent scholars. Please send a letter discussing your interest in the topic and a curriculum vitae to: dverene@emory.edu

Deadline is February 1, 2011.

The Institute for the History of Philosophy is made possible by a grant from the Bill and Bernie Marcus Foundation.